The Bowling Green correspondent of the New Orleans Picayure, writing on the 1st inst, furnishes covered on the trail. Upon being informed of the history of Kentucky :

I have just received, from a source known to be entirely reliable, another chapter in the history of despotism, for the destruction of the liberty of the revolution in this State, which will justify most others. It is the total change in foreign confully the action of the Confederates in occupying Columbus, while fastening on the Federal Govern ment and the tory leaders here the conspiracy for the violation of the neutral position taken by the subjected the character of their own Government State, and the subjugation of the people, and illus-If there were two principles more than any other trating the character of the authorities against emphatically settled as the rule for administration which the people have at last revolted, and the pollams, a Yankee adventurer who had unfortunately been naturalized in Kentucky, one of the Circuit Court Judges of the State, after consultation with leading "Union" men in the State, prepared a peti-tion asking the Administration to declare the counties composing the First Congressional District in Kentucky in rebellion and to suspend the mail service therein. This petition was privately circulated among the few Union men in that district, whose signatures it received, and was then presented to the President. That functionary required that the the essential doctrines of republican freedom, these cared Upon this the Administration determined to tained. The Telegraph remarks upon the above : We have received other accounts of Indian forays, which led us to believe that Pike's great Indian treaty is an unmitigated humbug. The Indians are certainly becoming as troublesome this fall as ever, and at least two regiments of rangers will be required to protect the frontier this winter.
